Friday 16 June - School Assembly hosted by Tupu 10:15am - 11am

Kia ora koutou,

Welcome to Jeffrey Y in Tupu Miller

We finished last week with a lovely assembly from Māia, capping off a week where things felt good - student learning and conduct, staff collegiality, weather and our lovely facilities. We have a lot to be grateful for at Kelburn. We have been working hard on our communications, informing whānau of school activities. With 3 weeks to go this term, I highlight the Whanake (week 9) and Whānui (week 10) plays, and the Celebration of Learning in week 10 as big events coming up. We also have our music assembly next Friday (9am) and we have a date for our whānau Matariki celebration next term ~ Thursday, 27th July.

BSLA Information - This Thursday at 5.30pm for year 2 students only. Tupu will hold an information evening for whānau of year 2 students on the Better Start Literacy Approach programme that operates in the junior school.

School hui - This Friday, Tupu are hosting our school hui at 10:15am.

DOC Edge - Whānui and Māia attending the DocEdge festival today at the Roxy cinema.

Music assembly - Next Friday, 23rd June, from 9am, our music ensembles will share their work with whānau and the school. This includes Kapa Haka, Orchestra, Lyrica and Piccolo, Xylo Beats and Tui. Each year these ensembles change as our year 8s leave and are replaced by younger tamariki. Over the course of the year, they build capability, strength and mana through practice and jolly hard work. It is a joy to watch their evolution.

Drama sharing - Both Whanake and Whānui ara are preparing for their drama sharing. The hall is busy as scripts are being written, and tamariki learn techniques to transform a story into a visual representation of a narrative. Exciting times ahead and hard work! Whanake are sharing their plays in week 9 and Whānui in week 10.

Celebration of Learning - In week 10, on Wednesday, 28 June, from 3.15 to 5.30pm, the tamariki will invite you into the learning spaces to share the work they have completed so far from the first half-year efforts. It's always lovely to take the time to go through the books and hear the student's voice as to what each learning experience was about in context.

Kahui Ako Whānau evening with Joseph Driesson this Wednesday, 12 June at Wellington College at 7pm. - Topics Joseph will cover: Boundaries and routines in the home; 'Balanced' parenting; Role of social media in a balanced life; Working positively with the school. We continue our series of annual parenting evenings for whānau, and this year we host Joseph Driesson at Alan Gibbs Centre at Wellington College on Wednesday, 14th June from 7 pm to 8.30 pm. These have been very well received previously and Joseph's talk aims to leave parents feeling empowered as the best parents they can be!

As we are now officially in winter and the weather is turning, please make sure that tamariki are dressed for the elements outside. The build is set for 18-20 degrees inside, but outside is much less. Please make sure they have warm clothes for outside play.

Ngā manaakitanga,
Andrew

Plays

We are well and truly into the devising section of our plays this term. The children have contributed lots of fantastical theories and wonderings about the mystery camera that appeared in our space. Each home learning team has taken off in their own direction. Whole backstories, characters and plot twists galore are being developed as you read this. Of course, drama conventions and writing are a large part of this process. The kids are excited to write their ideas down. Turning these into scripts is next. Followed by bringing their stories alive visually, on a stage and in front of a real-life audience. YOU! This is an exciting and authentic opportunity for the children to be working towards, which makes their learning relevant and meaningful.

Cameras

Whānui has been learning about the different aspects and origins of the camera from a science and technology lens. First, they explored the evolution of the camera from its earliest conception to the phone cameras we use today. This helped the students understand the kinds of innovations that have been made to camera technology over the years. Secondly, students researched important events in our society and how they were made possible with the help of camera technology. These included ideas like the use of photo evidence in investigations, the types of cameras in satellites, and the pivotal role of cameras in films and documentaries. These lessons culminated in each ākonga making a pinhole camera - one of the earliest and easiest types of cameras to make using common arts and crafts equipment. Students were eager to test out their creations by viewing objects through their lensless cameras, which then displayed the object upside-down!

Jamie brought in his great grandfather's old camera that was used for the photo finish images in horse races. Thank you, Jamie, for sharing your knowledge about the camera and great-grandfather. It was a great opportunity for everyone to see how an old folding camera worked.

Dance

In the second half of this term, we are utilising the skills of Jenny Cossey, who is teaching a dance rotation based around Matariki. The sequence of lessons is designed to support students' learning and understanding of the stars of Matariki and to promote creativity, diversity, and inclusion.

Buddy Class

During our tuakana/teina (buddy class) lesson, we went on a bug hunt. This was a great opportunity for our Whānui children to take on the role of a supportive, 'mature' buddy for ākongā in Tupu. Our tuakana prompted the teina with questions that encouraged them to observe and investigate the bugs closely. After all the bugs had been found. Buddies enjoyed some time together reading stories. Afterwards, Whānui ākongā reflected on the role of tuakana, and shared with one another both the enjoyment and challenges they faced working alongside their enthusiastic younger peers.

IT'S NOT MANIPULATION...

KIDS DON'T MISBEHAVE OR BREAK THE RULES TO MANIPULATE US.

CHALLENGING BEHAVIOR IS OFTEN DEVELOPMENTALLY APPROPRIATE AND IS USUALLY A SIGN OF AN UNMET NEED OR UNDERDEVELOPED SKILL.

AS PARENTS, WE NEED TO BECOME MORE
CURIOUS AND LESS JUDGMENTAL

WHAT YOU SEE:

They're having a tantrum over not getting what they wanted.

They're not sitting still at dinner time.

They're constantly fighting with a sibling.

They are not engaged with learning.

WHAT'S REALLY GOING ON:

"I lack self-regulation skills and get overwhelmed by my big emotions."

"I have a lot of unspent energy and I need help to channel it."

"I need support and practice with conflict resolution."

"This is not interesting to me, I don't see the point in learning this."

CHILDREN ACT OUT BECAUSE THEY ARE IN DISTRESS, NOT BECAUSE THEY ARE BAD PEOPLE THAT NEED PUNISHMENT.

ACTING OUT IS A CRY FOR HELP, A CRY FOR LOVE.
